The Bar

State, county, sanitary district officials, artichoke growers and conservation representatives got sand in their shoes Friday afternoon in an on-the-spot meeting at the Carmel River mouth. Subject: who opens the bar, who says when and who pays for it.

In the winter when the river swells with rain and is prevented from escaping into the ocean by the sand bar across its mouth, it backs up, floods the sanitary district sludge beds and the Odello Brothers' artichoke fields. It has been known to flood the low-lying Mission Fields home development.

In the old days the ranchers opened it themselves, when they thought it was necessary, or the fishermen opened it just before the steelhead run.

Audubon Society and other conservationists objected to the marshlands being drained, depriving the ducks and other water birds of a place to winter.

As the sanitary plant increased in size and the artichoke fields at the north of the river became a real estate subdivision, the farmers thought the responsibility of opening the bar and the cost should be shared by all who benefitted.

The county took on the responsibility last year.

The conservationists objected to the county's methods and timing.

Writer And Authority On Korea Establishes His New Home In Carmel

By RAYLYN PENNEY

Korean author and Far East expert Kyung Cho Chung, a Peninsula resident and teacher at the U. S. Army Language School for the past seven years, is now a Carmelite.

A few months ago Mr. Chung, whose comprehensive nonfiction volume Korea Tomorrow—Land of the Morning Calm (MacMillan, 1956) is now in its second printing with the possibility of a third upcoming, purchased a new home in the South Carmel Hills area.

He and Mrs. Chung, both of whom are in the process of becoming United State citizens, are just now completing an ambitious job of interior decoration and landscaping, at which the adaptable author and teacher has proved particularly able.

Meanwhile, he says he is back at work on another book. Although he was not specific about his writing plans, he says his topic again concerns East-West understandings.

Expert planting of such exotics as a monkeytree, hibiscus, magnolia, bird of paradise and the more usual ice plant has made a show place of the Chungs' gray frame home on South Carmel Hills

Interior decor combines oriental influence with some unusual Italian and antique accessories, all displayed in a setting of silvery-gray with subtle lighting effects.

Here the author also pursues his several other hobbies. He is a bibliophile whose book collection includes several valuable and ancient oriental volumes as well as special editions of art publications. An amateur violinist, he practices sporadically "when I have a chance," and he is a record collector whose favorite period of music

Planners Want City To Buy Woodsy Corner

The woodsy half block at the northwest corner of Ocean Avenue and Carpenter street should be purchased and preserved as a natural area by the city, the planning commission decided yesterday afternoon in study session. They will transmit formally this suggestion to the council next week in regular planning session.

The planners reached this conclusion after viewing possible building site gerrymanders of the piece of property consisting of four small lots, 25 by 100 feet in size, one, 100 by 30 feet.

"The pines and oaks on this woodsy corner we accept as part of the city," said Commissioner Herbert Blanks presenting three gerrymander plans for the land to fellow commissioners.

"The best gerrymander solution," he continued, "would only provide three minimum size building sites. The price of the property is not bad. It is for sale. What do you think of it becoming public property, bought by the city."

"It's where two main entrances to the city converge," observed Commissioner Hugh Smith.

"The idea is worthy of consideration," said Commissioner Lee Gottfried. "Has the city any money?"

City Clerk Larry Rose unofficially replied that Carmel had "lots of money" for projects which citizens wish to support.

City Councilman May, present in the audience, remarked that such "strips of land on either side of the entrance to town preserved as parks" had been an idea of his when he was a fledgeling councilman. "You can't assign a dollar price to city values," he emphasized.

Commissioner Florence Josselyn said the unspoiled half block at the top of Ocean Avenue made "a lovely entrance to town."

"Can we afford not to buy this key corner?" asked Mr. Blanks.

"City money should be put where it does the most good," Mr. May suggested.

Planning Commission Chairman George Willox at this point said more land should be available for parks in which Carmel children might play. He doubted that the woodsy corner would serve this purpose. "Would it be used?"

"The definition of a park in Carmel is open space for natural growth, countered Mr. Smith.

"I use Devendorf Plaza every time I look at it," said Mrs. Josselyn referring to Carmel's block of park at the foot of Ocean Avenue.

"There are few wild areas left," Mr. Smith pointed out.

"The history of Carmel is one of lost opportunities," Mr. Rose interjected.

"That's true of all California," Mrs. Josselyn added.

Then Mr. Rose startled commissioners into action by telling them that, as the suggested gerrymander they most approved would provide rectangular building sites of 4,000 square feet, planning commission approval was not necessary. The building inspector could approve the gerrymander and would have no reason to deny such division of the property.

"Shall we recommend the pur-

League Of Women Voters To Reopen J. C. Issue Tonight

Tonight the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters will ask the Monterey County Committee on School District Organization to re-initiate a master plan study of school districts in Monterey County. The League will also offer to support the Committee in any request for funds for this study.

"New things in the school picture, such as annexation, affect the county junior college situation," Mrs. Edwin Bliss of Monterey, co-chairman of the League's continuing study on junior college districts, stated this morning. The other League study co-chairmen are Mrs. Alphonse Elsen, representing Carmel and Dr. Isabel Abbott for Pacific Grove. "For five years the League has been studying junior college districts in Monterey County," Mrs. Bliss stated.

Aware that possible state legislation may make available state grants for county school district master plan studies, the League wishes the Monterey County Committee to be one of the first to request funds and the first to receive such funds if they are made available, according to Mrs. Bliss.

The League's particular interest in the County's junior college picture and their belief that the need of a county master plan school district study is imperative are causes behind the League request in Salinas tonight, Mrs. Bliss stated.

She added that three times in the past three years the County Committee on School District Or-

Plans Approved For Askew, Sr., Memorial

Work will start in the next few weeks on the William Askew, Sr., memorial at Junipero and Sixth Streets. Sketches of the memorial, a planter and bronze plaque were approved at last week's council meeting.

Made of fractured granite, the planter will be 11 feet six inches wide, about 20 feet long and three feet in height and will resemble the center strip planters on Ocean Avenue.

William Askew, Sr., was for many years Carmel's street superintendent. After his death in May his son, William, who had been his foreman for several years, was appointed street superintendent.

Committee on the Askew memorial is: City Clerk Larry Rose, Building Inspector Floyd Adams, Police Chief Clyde Klaumann and Fire Chief Robert Smith.

CARMEL-PACIFIC GROVE "BIG GAME" SATURDAY AFTERNOON

With Carmel needing a win to get a share of the league title and Pacific Grove needing a win to stay out of the league cellar, the Padres and Breakers clash in their annual grid natural this Saturday afternoon at Carmel's Bardarson Field. The two junior-varsity squads open the day's football activity with a 12:00 o'clock preliminary tilt which looks to be an even-up tussle. Besides battling for the league title, the Padres have an added incentive in trying to keep possession of the "Shoe"—a life-size bronze football shoe which each year goes to the winner of the Carmel-PG game. Carmel has had possession of the "Shoe" for the last three years and has been accustomed to seeing it in the trophy case. Although the season records indicate Carmel as the favored team, form and the dope sheets mean very little in this clash which is steeped in natural rivalry. Both teams are always keyed to a high pitch for this one and it is the rule rather than the exception for the players to play way over their heads. Neither team is hampered by loss of key personnel so Saturday's Peninsula natural should see both squads at full strength.

Coach Charley Howell's Breakers operate from the multiple offense with T-formation, single-wing, and spread. In Dave Nightingale, Pacific Grove has a talented passer who has thrown touchdown strikes in every game this season. Dick Adams, Mike Logan, and Steve Perkins round out the Breaker backfield which is light but swift. Carmel High's T-formation attack has tallied 153 points in six games while a sturdy defense has been holding the opposition to 31 points.

Carmel's offensive unit will be manned by the same crew which opened against Gilroy and the regular defensive starters will answer the referee's whistle. Saturday's game will see 23 Carmel seniors don the Red & Gray football spangles for the last time. Playing their final game for Carmel High will be Bill Hicks, Phil White, Fritz Scheffer, Andy Elliott, Nick Vertin, Jamie Holman, Norman Colman, Sam Farr, Larry Dufur, Mike Marquard, Van Treat, Al Eaker, Deen Rowe, Tom Stanford, Cim Conway, Craig Smith, Richard Muniz, Bud Conroy, John Moffett, Jeff Smith, Dennis Peavey, Steve Gann, and David Vincent.

Pacific Grove's junior-varsity aggregation has come with a rush during the last three games, whipping San Lorenzo and Live Oak and holding the classy Gonzales squad to a 19-19 tie. Coach Duke Thayer's jayvees are practically all freshmen and have improved tremendously with game experience. The Carmel Babes are smarting from a pair of ties in their last two outings and are anxious to finish the season with an uneven scoreboard. Coach Rainer will again rely on his midget backfield of Mike Draper, John Draper, Dave Hansen, and Frank Mayo to spark the Little Padres on offense. The line will be anchored by Paul Rice, center; Nick Molitor and Fred Bucher, guards; Brian LeNeve and Toby Edson, tackles; with Doyle Clayton and Pat Boyle at the end spots.

While Pacific Grove and Carmel are settling the Peninsula issue on Saturday, Gilroy and Hollister will be playing their crucial game Friday night at Gilroy. A win for Gilroy will assure them of a tie for the league crown while a win for the Haybalers could swing the title toward Carmel if the Padres get over the Breakers.

PADRES IN TWIN DEADLOCK WITH GILROY MUSTANGS

Four evenly-matched football squads traded blocks, tackles, runs, and passes for four hours at Gilroy High's Wheeler Field last Friday night and when the final whistle blew nothing had been settled since both games ended with the score deadlocked. The junior-varsity fracas wound up 7-7 and the varsities battle to a 13-13 tie. Both games were marked by solid defensive play which thwarted the strong offenses which have led both the Padres and Mustangs to victories in league games this season. The tie in the varsity game keeps Gilroy and Carmel locked up in first place for the league title while the even-up score in the junior-varsity tilt vaults Hollister to first place in the jayvee division.

Coach Fred Rainer's small jayvees did an outstanding job against the hard-hitting Gilroy Colts and shaded the hosts in everything but the final score. The Little Padres racked up 315 yards to 235 for Gilroy but were unable to capitalize on several opportunities. The Carmel jayvees got on the scoreboard early in the opening quarter as Frank Mayo's passing moved the Little Padres for an 80-yard scoring drive. Quarterback Mayo ran the final twelve yards to notch the six-pointer. Doyle Clayton's conversion kick was true to the mark and Carmel was in front by 7-0. The Colts came right back on the succeeding kickoff to march 78 yards for the knock-up touchdown. A nifty 54-yard scoring pass from quarterback Richard Reyes to end Floyd Perry put the Colts on the board. Crisp line blocking by Paul Rice, Nick Molitor, and Brian LeNeve augmented the fine passing of Frank Mayo and the brilliant receiving of Doyle Clayton. The sturdy forwards opened good running lanes for the quick running thrusts of Mike Draper and fullback Dave Hansen.

Carmel's varsity received the opening kickoff and in two plays had six points on the scoreboard. Starting from their 35-yard stripe, the Padres shot fullback Bud Conroy off tackle for an 18-yard pickup and then opened up the Gilroy secondary with a touchdown pass from quarterback Cim Conway to halfback Dennis Peavey. Jeff Smith's conversion attempt missed by inches and the quick-hitting Padres were in front 6-0. The Mustangs didn't take long to get the equalizer on the board as Elbert Enos and Mike Elder took turns ripping through the Padre left side. A potent pass combination, Enos to Latzke, proved tough for the Padres to contain and resulted in the first Gilroy touchdown and conversion. The half ended with Gilroy in front, 7 to 6, and the way the defensive clubs were operating the second half yardage would be difficult to collect. As anticipated the third quarter was dominated by the defenses and most of the play was between the 40-yard stripes. The Mustangs did penetrate to Carmel's 22-yard line where Craig Smith made a brilliant interception to move the Red & Gray out of trouble. From the 38-yard stripe, the Padres moved 62 yards in 14 plays for the go-ahead touchdown. With Ron Faia, Dennis Peavey, and Bud Conroy furnishing the power, Carmel drove to Gilroy's two where Dennis Peavey sliced for the touchdown behind a powerful block thrown by Norman Colman. Jeff's important conversion was good and the Padres were in front, 13 to 7. Gilroy's offense caught fire late in the fourth quarter and the Mustangs moved 54 yards for the tieing touchdown. The big play in the Mustang touchdown drive was another Enos to Latzke aerial which ate up 40 yards toward the Padre goal. The Gilroy conversion was stopped when Dennis Peavey tackled Enos short of the Carmel goal. The Padres came with a rush in the final seconds but wound up 20 yards short of the Mustang goal when the gun sounded.

Both the Mustangs and Padres have one more league game left before the championship race is decided but Gilroy figures to rub out Hollister rather handily and Carmel is favored to get the job done against Pacific Grove.

Vance Jefferson Lowrey died in a Marin county hospital on Sunday. He had been receiving medical care for several years. Until five months ago he was assistant manager of the Mercantile Acceptance Company in Monterey then became manager of the San Rafael branch of the firm.

Vance Lowrey was born in Coffeyville, Kansas, on May 6, 1930, and lived in Chickasha, Oklahoma, until 12 years ago when he came with his family to live in Pacific Grove, later moving to Carmel. He graduated from Pacific Grove High School and attended Monterey Peninsula College. Illness forced him to leave college in his sophomore year.

Authority On Korea Establishes His New Home In Carmel

is the romantic.

His recent book, prefaced by General Mark Clark and enthusiastically hailed as one of the very best in its field by reviewers over the nation, two years ago, is an authoritative survey of Korea's historical, cultural, economic and political heritage and prospects, based on Mr. Chung's knowledge as a native of Seoul and a scholar of Korean life.

Reared in Seoul, he was educated at Waseda University in Tokyo and Seoul National University and came to this country as a student at Columbia University Graduate School.

In the United States he also attended New York University. His specialty is public law and government, and he is a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science and the American Association of University Professors.

Chung says his interest in writing may be partly environmental, since he is the son of a high-ranking official in the old Korean government who wrote articles as a sideline.

In addition to his book, the Carmel author has recently written articles and book reviews both directly and indirectly concerned with his speciality.

In one of the recent articles, Mr. Chung chose to state the Asian problem this way:

"In Asia the last two or three centuries have witnessed an enormous increase in population. Economic progress, however, has failed to keep up with this increase. As a result there has been a widespread growth of poverty and overcrowding of the poor in unhealthful cities upon which so many western travelers in Asia have commented, some with repugnance only and some with the uneasy qualms of a conscience not entirely at rest.

"The difference between the two living standards is due chiefly to the fact that Asia was not in a postion to move, while the industrial revolution has scarcely affected the Asia people, save for the Japanese.

"The low living standards of Asia's masses will never really improve until there are sufficient jobs to go around among them. Every citizen must be able to come home with enough money in his pocket to ensure him the possibility of a decent life.

"In time the effects of a gradual rise in their purchasing power and living standard will affect not only their own countries but even those economically advanced."

Mr. Chung said only this week that his realistic but extremely hopeful outlook for his homeland has not changed since the writing of his book.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

Now that the races are over, we can come up as the candidate for the title of being latest with the mostest, or something, because we have three new paper bound books on sports cars and racing. They are all in the Modern Sports Car Series. The titles are: A Guide to Rallying, Guide to Buying a Used Sports Car, and The Jaguar Guide. All of them will be good material for the enthusiast during the next year and beyond, so remember that we have them. If they get a lot of wear we will send them back for binding, but if they sit on the shelves their own little paper covers will do very well. With everything else in the country, the price of binding has gone up frightfully.

Thunder at Harper's Ferry by Allan Keller is another of those hour by hour accounts of an historical event. Certainly this is a technique which makes past events come alive for the reader. This one is of course the account of John Brown and his activities, and it is illustrated by photographs and portraits which contribute greatly to the sense of reality such a presentation gives.

To join the Caterpillar Club you must have saved your life by parachute. Into the Silk by Ian Mackersey tells the stories of several members of the club and the hair raising events which led to their qualifying for membership. Jumpers whose chutes failed and who were caught by others whose chutes had opened, jumps made from several feet and others made from several miles in the air, one who was blown from his bomber without a chute and fell thousands of feet into 18 inches of snow and survived, and many other incredible adventures all leading to membership in the club.

The short happy history of a first trip to Europe was written by Leslie Katz and called Invitation to the Voyage. This is for people who are going there, people who have been there, and people who just love to read about trips whether or not they ever take any themselves. This is joyous tripping, and worth anybody's reading time.

chase of this land to the city council at our regular meeting next week?" Chairman Willox asked the commission.

"I urge that this possibility be considered before our next meeting and a report made," Mr. Blanks replied.

Commissioners Josselyn and Smith concurred. Next week definite action on the proposal will be made at the regular planning commission meeting.

The half block south of the woodsy corner is at present developed with one small house on each 25 by 100 foot lot, a use not now approved within the city.

The gerrymanders suggested unofficially to the planning commissioners were: three lots with a frontage of 33 and one third feet each on Ocean Avenue, three lots with a 43 and one third feet frontage each on Carpenter Street or three lots, one along Ocean approached by an easement from Sixth between two lots, one along Carpenter, the other along west limit of the property. Only the last gerrymander provided entrances to the building sites off a main entrance to Carmel. There was no guarantee that prospective owners of homes would use the Sixth Street easement. They might have their driveways on traffic-burdened Ocean or Carpenter. Planning commissioners considered the last gerrymander the most favorable.

Other study session matters considered by the planning commission were to suggest that the League of California Cities establish an annual school or seminar giving instruction in the basic elements of city planning.

Mr. Blanks felt this was necessary as he had found meetings of the League too technical. "They go over the head of the average planning commissioner," he stated. He wanted the League especially to regard the "plight of small cities without a planning director such as Carmel."

Approving this idea Mr. Smith remarked "these are the cities which are about to mushroom into large cities."

The League of California Cities now has instructional sessions for city clerks and city attorneys. The proposed commissioners' seminars would establish no precedent, Mr. Rose added.

Aerial photographs of the Carmel area were favorably regarded by planners who may, next week, move to buy a set of these pictures. Mrs. Josselyn and Mr. Blanks reported that in their survey of apartment use in the city they had found few occupants of apartments who do not use cars; owners preferred transient rather than permanent use of their apartments. This survey will be continued with a list of all apartments in the business district given to commissioners by City Building Inspector Adams.

MOLLIE TERRIFIED

Molly Williams, almost three, sobbed when told she was going to be an aunt. Her baffled parents, Dr. and Mrs. Russell Williams, found they were dealing with a problem in semantics. Molly was terrified because she thought she was going to be an ant. "Bee is going to be a mother," explained Mrs. Williams. Tears vanished. Molly is now happily talking about a trip to Boston in the spring. Bee is Mrs. Ben Chaffey.

Fred Farr, Larry Rose To Participate In Planning Conference

What's in the future for the Monterey Peninsula—Paradise Lost or Brave New World, or something in between? Will its major industry be colleges, commuters, conventions, computers? What sort of environment do we want, and how shall we achieve it?

This Saturday's Planning Conference at Monterey Peninsula College will consider such posers in a series of sessions with the theme, Monterey Peninsula Tomorrow—It's Sooner Than You Think.

State Senator Fred Farr will open the conference at 1:00 o'clock with a talk entitled, Where Do We Want To Go?

At 2:00 o'clock, Carmel City Clerk Larry Rose will chair a panel, on The Impact of a University. Participants will be Charles Simpson, Monterey Chief of Police; Ted Neth, Supervising Appraiser for the Monterey Peninsula; Hal Green, Engineer for the City of Monterey; and Thomas Elston, Carmel architect.

Natural Beauty vs. 200,000 People will be the topic of the second panel, which starts at 3:30 o'clock. Moderator will be Professor F. E. LaCauza, Academic Chairman of the General Line and Naval Science School, with the following panelists: Richard Bennett, real estate development manager for Del Monte Properties; Jack Davenport of the California State Highway Patrol; H. D. Maybury, senior building inspector for the Monterey Peninsula (county); and John Dowdakin of the State Department of Forestry.

A panel of summation will begin at 4:30 o'clock, Future Planning for the Monterey Peninsula Area with Larry Rose again as moderator. On the panel will be William Crabbe of Pacific Grove, former planning commission member and retired utility company manager; Gordon Hall, Planning Director for the City of Monterey; and J. Hugh Turner, director of the Seaside Redevelopment Agency.

The general public is invited to attend all sessions of the conference, which is under the joint sponsorship of Monterey Peninsula College and the Monterey County Citizens Planning Association. All sessions will take place in the M.P.C. Student Union.

The registration fee of $1 will include coffee served at 12:30 and 3:00 o'clock.

Music On The Peninsula

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

The Monterey Peninsula Concert Association presented its first concert of its twentieth season Friday night at Pacific Grove High School Auditorium. It was a recital by Robert McFerrin, the young American baritone who has achieved an international name and success. Most of the Association's 1000 members were present to appreciate this singer's exceptionally fine performance which was accompanied by Edward Mobbs, whose sympathetic support at the piano was of exceptional insight and musicianly value.

The stirring theme of the Handel Hear Me Ye Winds and Waves was handled with power. McFerrin immediately captured the audience with his vibrant voice and perfect enunciation. Handel was followed by two melodious Purcell numbers and a Stradella. A group of four Schuberts, including An die Music, so often a test in Leider singing, proved the singer's literary and artistic comprehension. They were followed by an aria from Verdi's Masked Ball, all of which not only established the singer as an artist of the finest lyrical and operatic utterances but a master also of English, German and Italian. Indeed, his rich voice, grip of tone production and diction was a joy to listen to and a lesson to all voice aspirants.

Three English songs in manuscript by John Edmunds and two by Celius Doughtery, a group of Gambling Songs arranged by J. J. Niles, and one of Negro Spirituals arranged by H. Johnson constituted the second half of the program to which were added three extra numbers by the demanding audience. In all of these McFerrin displayed exceptional grip of character as distinct from the classics, and although the Spirituals were of his race and temperament as son of a clergyman to whom music was important, they took on an artistic excellence seldom heard. Attainment by this duo of first-rate artists brought many recalls and congratulations to the Association. We like their way of mentioning the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra and other musical organizations of the Peninsula in their literature which might be emulated with profit to all concerned!

Notice received from the San Francisco Symphony Association mentions the four special Saturday evening concerts at the Opera House to be conducted by Andre Kostelanetz that will include the San Francisco premiere of Highlights from Lee's Flower Drum Song, the recent great success in Boston, scheduled for Broadway in December. On the same program, the young pianist, John Browning, whom we know here, will play Rachmanninoff's Concerto in C minor, January 10. The open concerts of the regular season are Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, December 3, 4 and 5.

The Chalk Garden At Circle Is Fine Theatre

BY MAX TADLOCK

Without doubt Enid Bagnold's The Chalk Garden which opened Friday night at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre should be a sellout for the remainder of its performances. If one takes a play of real wit and peopled with a collection of the most interesting characters you'll ever meet under one roof, adds a perceptive director and a splendid cast, the result is inevitably fine theatre.

This play is a delightful mixture of high comedy, zaniness, the kind of pathos which heightens comic effect, mystery, and even a good portion of well-turned symbolism. It concerns for one thing the unsuccessful attempts of a determined English gentlewoman to raise tender subtropicals in her chalky windswept garden. Her results are also spectacularly poor with her granddaughter whom she has transplanted from the mother's care and is raising with a minimum of pruning and a maximum of Freudian feeding in the odd climate of her own household. How the new governess attacks both problems of the improper environment for growth is the story.

Flavia Flavin in a superb performance stars as Miss Madrigal, the almost incoherent and withdrawn person who wins the governess' job because there are no other final applicants. With sensitivity and delicacy, Miss Flavin lets us see the growing strength of this strange woman doing battle for the child and the garden alike as the need arises.

With an equally fine performance, Marcia Hovick as Mrs. St. Maugham, the grandmother, shows what a keen sense of timing can do to jar the audience into laughter at the most unexpected times. A newcomer to this reviewer, I hope to see her again on Peninsula stages.

As her granddaughter Laurel, Marcia Kuster shares the kudos for an excellent performance. Publicly proud of the criminal violation she brags she suffered in the park at the age of twelve, pyromaniacal, and a psychopathic liar, this little monster blossoms into a delightful sweet 16 under the nurturing of Miss Madrigal.

Two other main characters make their influence much felt even though one is never seen or heard on stage. He is Pinkbell, the retired butler who oversees the household from his deathbed upstairs. The other is Maitland, the young handyman who is breaking in as butler. In this permissive household, Maitland seems to spend most of his time sharing his prison-inculcated love of crime and courtroom scenes with Laurel.

As interpreted by Frederick Rider — that perceptive director mentioned earlier—this role was a proper foil to the demanding Laurel and her imperious grandmother.

Douglas MacFarlane is the dignified judge content to live in the neatly confined world he has found in the courtroom. His resistance to being personally involved with the cases which have come before him precipitates the final action in the play.

Margaret Phillips as Laurel's mother, Sarah Shackette as the nurse, and Gabrielle Kuster and Carolyn Elstob as two early applicants for the governess' job all illustrate that no part is too small to command excellent attention.

An outstanding performance all around and recommended with no reservations.

Paul Budd

Paul Lincoln Budd, civilian personnel director of Fort Ord Complex since 1947, died on Friday in a local hospital after a brief illness.

Mr. Budd was born on February 15, 1909, in Rochester, New York. In 1918, with his parents, he went to live in Honolulu. He graduated from Punahou Academy, then continued his education at Stanford University, majoring in graphic arts and education, and obtained a B.A. degree in 1932.

After leaving Stanford, Mr. Budd returned to Hawaii and married Idell Henning of San Jose, a visitor in the Islands. Following his marriage he went to Osaka, Japan, and was business manager for United Film Corporation, distributors of American and British films in Japan and Korea, until 1935.

He then came back to the United States to study at the Hopkins Marine Station in Pacific Grove. In 1936 Paul Budd obtained a master's degree in embryology from Stanford. His thesis, Development of Eggs and Early Larvae of Six California Fish, was published in book form by Stanford Press in 1940.

He taught science in high schools on the Island of Maui in Hawaii from 1937-40 then became personnel officer for U. S. Navy Air Base contractors in the Pacific area. He remained in this position during World War II. The number of Navy civilians under his supervision increased from 6,000 in 1940 to 35,000 in 1947 when he was transferred from Honolulu to Fort Ord and brought his family to live in Carmel.

Here Paul Budd had charge of 30,000 employees in the Fort Ord Complex which includes Fort Ord, Camp Roberts, San Luis Obispo, Hunter Liggett Reservation and the Fresno Recruiting Station. His staff of 20 persons developed a personnel management system which drew commendation from the Department of the Army and private industry. He was the only civilian at Fort Ord to be a special staff officer of the commanding general. Last year he was given the Sustained Superior Performance Award by the then commandant of Fort Ord, Major General William M. Breckinridge.

Survivors are his wife, Idell; two daughters, Carla and Nicki, both students at Carmel High School; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Budd, all of Carmel.

Friends wishing to honor the memory of Paul Budd are asked to do so in the form of donations to the American Cancer Research Society, 246 Pearl Street, Monterey.

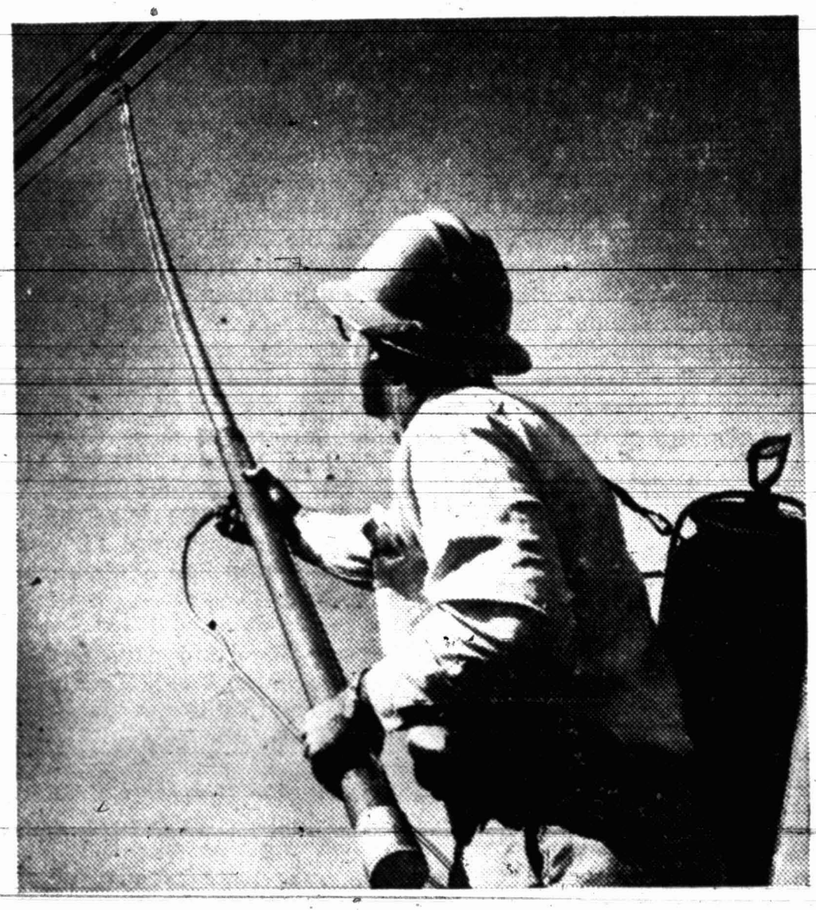
WHAT'S DOING

D. D. Muir, your Telephone Manager in Carmel



The long pole in the hands of this telephone man looks like just the thing for fishing. But it's not a fish he's after; it's trouble. He's giving that cable a "bubble bath," spraying it with a gummy, liquid solution. If the cable is damaged, air will escape through the cracks and form bubbles along the cable. And that's our cue to make repairs swiftly, so your calls won't be affected. In this and many other ways, we keep close tabs on your service. This keeps your phone working more dependably—makes your service better.

Marylin McAbee and Louise Gates are receiving practical experience during their seven week training course. Mrs. Grammatico, their instructor, is standing by to answer any of their questions. All new employees receive this training period which is designed to prepare them to be able to answer your questions concerning your telephone service.

Report From Rome

Peter de Petra, son of Dr. Giulio de Petra and Mrs. Hella de Petra, writes that he was in the huge crowd at the Vatican when Pope John XXIII made his first appearance. He also saw the late Pope Pius XII when he was lying in state in St. Peter's. Peter endeavored to obtain some of the special stamps issued during the interval between the death of Pope Pius and the crowning of Pope John. However, so great was the number of persons with the same desire, that he was unsuccessful at the post office but still hopes to acquire some elsewhere to send to stamp collecting friends in Carmel.

Peter is spending his junior high school year at Notre Dame International School in Rome. He returns here next summer to complete his high school education at Carmel High.

Couple Wed In Baha'i Ceremony

Barbara Nur Yarzdi became the bride of James MacDowell Markert on Saturday. The Pebble Beach home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Dahl, with its sweeping view of Carmel Bay and Point Lobos, formed the romantic setting for the mid-afternoon ceremony.

The Baha'i marriage service was performed by Mr. Arthur L. Dahl of Pebble Beach and Mr. Charles Wolcott of Los Angeles. both members of the National Spiritual Assembly of the Baha'is of the United States. Taking part in the ceremony were Barbara and James, each reading a prayer. Miss Elena Allegro witnessed the signatures as representative of the Los Angeles Baha'i Assembly, in whose area the young couple will reside.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ali Yarzdi of Merced, formerly of Berkeley, and sister of Robert Yarzdi, Barbara was escorted by her father. She wore a ballerina length dress of imported shadow lace with a long fitted bodice and a full skirt of many rows of shirred lace. Her Paris headdress was a small crown of tiny net leaves decorated with seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of white bouvardia and butterfly orchids.

Mrs. J. Robert Bosley of Cleveland, sister of the groom, served as matron of honor. She wore a hyacinth blue organza dress with a bell-shaped skirt finished with a bow at the hemline, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Mrs. Howard Jory of Berkeley, former schoolmate of Barbara, was in charge of the guest book.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Frederick Schaefer Markert and the late Mr. Markert of Cleveland, asked his brother-in-law, J. Robert Bosley, to be his best man. Keith Dahl returned to his home from Stanford University to act as usher. Keith's younger brothers, Arthur, Roger and Gregory Dahl also assisted.

The newlyweds received before a background of green plants and white chrysanthemums. The bride's mother wore a light brown suit of silk and wool, and Mrs. Market, who came from Cleveland for the occasion, chose a dress of green silk.

The wedding was preceded and followed by a program of tape recorded orchestral music. The ceremony began with a piano recording of the Prayer of Baha'u'llah, From the Sweet Scented Streams, set to music and played by Charles Wolcott. The bridal party entered to the strains of Bach's Air For G String.

Barbara received her diploma from Stanford University where she served on her freshman, and senior class executive committees. James graduated with honors in chemical engineering from Princeton University where he was a member of Tiger Inn.

The young couple met in Boston when both were taking advanced degrees in business administration at Harvard. After receiving her certificate from the Harvard-Radcliffe Program in Business Administration in 1957, Barbara served for a year as assistant personnel officer for Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals. James received his M.B.A. this June, and is now employed as an engineer by Standard Oil Co. of California in Southern California. After a honeymoon in Carmel and Palm Springs, the couple will live in Inglewood.

Penny and Joe Nesbitt, River School students, will move to the Highlands with their parents.

Michael Nesbitt, who graduated from Carmel High School in June, is at present visiting in Honolulu and has mystified Mr. and Mrs. Nesbitt with a letter announcing he has "a six months' job with the Coast Guard." They are awaiting further particulars.

Mrs. Nesbitt's son, Brian Casiday, a freshman majoring in music at San Francisco State College, came home for a visit last week end. He also was a member of last June's graduating class at the High School and played trumpet with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra during his last two years here.

MOUSETRAP CONTINUES TO CATCH AUDIENCE AT THE STUDIO

The Mousetrap has proved to be of great popularity to Peninsula audiences and to Carmel audiences in particular with the Friday and Saturday night showings of this Agatha Christie thriller at The Studio in Carmel.

The murder mystery as a literary form has always proved fascinating to the casual as well as the serious reader, and Miss Christie has been the master of this field for the past 30 years. Her name has been associated with the tightest plots and her storybook killers are the closest kept secret in all murder mysteries.

The Mousetrap continues its run at The Studio on week ends, and the management has yet to overhear anyone during the intermission break conversations in the lobby come up with the right killer — Miss Christie's well kept secret.

CHURCHES

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

How spiritualization of thought brings man enlarged ability and opportunity will be set forth Sunday at Christian Science services in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Mortals and Immortals."

Highlighting the Bible passages to be read is the story in Genesis of Jacob and Esau.

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will be read the following (254:10):

"When we wait patiently on God and seek Truth righteously, He directs our path. Imperfect mortals grasp the ultimate of spiritual perfection slowly; but to begin aright and to continue the strife of demonstrating the great problem of being, is doing much."

The Golden Text is from Romans (8:5): "They that are after the flesh do mind things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit."

Town Topics . . .

The first rain was Sunday night. Monday clouds cleared. A newly-washed Carmel glowed in winter color. Warm sun glinted on wings of sanderlings wheeling with the ebb and flow of waves. High tide tumbled spuming surf to cliff edges, over the river-mouth sand bar into the lagoon. Smoke of wood fires scented the crisp night air. Shopkeepers displayed gay holiday wares. Thanksgiving is two weeks from today, Christmas six.

"I am very proud that the first job I ever had was on the Pine Cone," says State Senator Fred Farr, then tells how in the 1920's, during school vacation, he importantly arrived each summer morning for work as this paper's handy boy.

We have just found out that the Pine Cone is read "in the shadow of the Himalayas" by Helen Stravides of Srinigar, Kashmir, India. She is the owner of a small factory which produces embroidered scarves and scatter rugs. Rupert Leach, world photographer, sends the papers to his friend who, as yet, has not seen Carmel. "I enjoyed the Pine Cone for two years before I came here to live," explains Mr. Leach. "My friend appreciates it equally."

Carmel High School girls this week are all wearing red and gray clothing to keep school spirit at high pitch for the Pacific Grove-Carmel High School Big Game on Saturday. The many variations of the two colors are ingenious. Red and Gray Week ends with a dance in the gymnasium on Friday night when the Football Queen is named. She is chosen by secret balloting of the football team. Only Coach Mosolf and girls' physical education teacher Mrs. Morlang know who will be queen before the announcement at the Red and Gray dance. Any girl in the school may have been selected.

The Bar . . .

And again the question was raised of sharing the cost.

Friday's meeting, and negotiations between county and sanitary district this week, arrived at these arrangements:

When the gauge indicates approaching flood stage, Max Drewin at the sanitary plant will give 24 hours notice to Milton Frincke of the California Department of Beaches and Parks that the bar is to be opened. The sanitary district is responsible for the work of opening it. The county will reimburse the sanitary district for part of the cost. And Frincke will see to it that the channel is cut close to the south bank to avoid draining the marshes.

City

Upholding their planning commission, the Carmel City Council said no, unanimously, Monday afternoon, to C. W. Stoops. The Planning Commission had told Stoops that 10 motel units on 8000 square feet of building site is too many, and refused him a building permit. He appealed to the council. The hearing involved an hour and a half discussion that got into economics and aesthetics but was returned to firm ground by City Clerk Larry Rose and City Attorney John Morse who reminded council and audience that the issue was density control, which the council had left to the discretion of the planning commission in a recent amendment to the zoning ordinance.

Councilman Jim Buffington didn't think eight units—The planning commission had ruled that one unit to 1000 square feet should be the maximum in this case—was economically feasible. "One of the units would be used by a manager. That leaves only seven rental units."

Patricia Hall, in the audience, said that the council was not concerned with whether or not people make money on their property. At least, they had never been concerned about whether or not she made money on her property.

Mayor John Chitwood said something about power to tax and power to confiscate. "I'm not here for confiscation."

Someone pointed out that the owners had been operating at the site with five units for years.

Councilman Everett May pointed out that a committee of the planning commissioners which was more experienced than the council in this field had decided 10 units at this spot would be too many in view of the concentration of other over-night accommodations in the neighborhood. He felt that their judgment should be upheld unless their rulings were exceedingly out of line, and he didn't think they were in this case.

They fussed back and forth peaceably but eventually Buffington and the mayor came around and cast their vote with the others.

Audience speakers: Admiral C. W. Fisher, Mrs. Ruth Mapstead, Mrs. Dorothy Chapman, supporting the planning commission's ruling. Francis Whitaker, against.

Representing Stoops: Paul Bosholm. Also speaking for sustaining appeal: Forest Hunter, who has an option on the property.

Schools

Down Coast Pfeiffer and Palo Colorado Elementary School Districts got a break Monday when the Monterey School Board decided they would not call for a bond election for high school construction until after unification of their elementary schools with their high school district. At the same meeting, they decided on a one million, 250,000 dollars bond issue for elementary and junior high school class room construction and a 50 cent over-ride tax for high school operation. They will pass the resolution calling the election Monday night.

The bond issues for elementary and junior high school do not affect the down coast districts since their tie in with Monterey is with the high school and junior college. If the coast districts are forced out of their association with Monterey when Monterey unifies, their responsibility for the high school over-ride tax ceases. Had the board decided on the high school bond issue at this time, Palo Colorado and Pfeiffer districts would have been obligated even after they were out of the Monterey High School District and absorbed into the Carmel District.

As for annexation to Carmel, from the first the down coast districts have wanted to be included in the Monterey unification, but have been informed both by county counsel and state attorney general that they may not because the districts are no longer contiguous. However, they will try to get special legislation through Senator Fred Farr.

Financial problems of Monterey's unification and the fate of the down-coast schools will be thrashed out again tonight at the meeting of the County Committee on School District Organization, 8:00 o'clock in the Salinas Californian, across the street from the court house. Supervisors' chambers are tied up for another meeting.
